Prototype

The first version of a product. It is usually a non-working, less expensive version of a final design.

Smart Device

A small piece of technology that holds information. Most smart devices have applications or apps. These apps may help you find your way as you drive or count how many steps you've walked.

ROZZY
LEARNING COMPANY

Computer Programmer

A person who writes and fixes computer programs. Computer programmers know special languages that tell computers what they should do.