

Name: _____

Content Check

Read and answer the questions below.

1. Imagine you are an architect and you find a sharp object with a handle. What might this tool suggest about the people who used it?

2. There is evidence that Stone Age people drew cave paintings. What can an archaeologist learn from these paintings?

3. What tools have archaeologists found that suggest Stone Age people used fire to cook?

Content Check

Teacher Key

1. Imagine you are an architect and you find a sharp object with a handle. What might this tool suggest about the people who used it?

That the people who used this tool hunted for food.

2. There is evidence that Stone Age people drew cave paintings. What can an archaeologist learn from these paintings?

These paintings showed that Stone Age people communicated with each other or told stories.

3. What tools have archaeologists found that suggest Stone Age people used fire to cook?

Wooden spoons with evidence of fire, clay pots, boiling stone.

