Writing and Drawing About My Family

Hi! My name is Natasha. I am an author. An author is a person who writes stories!

Right now, I am writing stories about people's families! A family is a group of people who love each other and help each other! All families are unique. This means that all families are special because they are different from each other.

Follow the steps below to learn about how families are unique. Then, write your own story about your family.

Step 1: Learn About How Families Are Unique

Families are different sizes!

Some families are small.

Some families are big.

Some families have pets!

Families speak different languages.

Some families speak one language, like English, at their house.

Some families speak more than one language at their house, like English and Spanish.

Writing and Drawing About My Family

Families live in different places.

Some families live in big cities.

Some families live on farms.

Can you think of other ways that families are unique?

Step 2: Write and Draw About Your Family

Create your own book about your family! Fill out the attached pages to tell others what makes your family unique! Then, cut each page out and staple them together to make a book!
