Making Treats for Community Helpers

Meet Melissa! Melissa is a chef. A chef is a person who cooks food and makes new recipes!

Today, you will imagine that you are a chef who is creating ice cream cones to share with community helpers. You want to make your ice cream cones extra special to show community helpers how thankful you are for all they do.

Follow the steps below to create your ice cream cones!

Step 1: Learn about Community Helpers

A community is a group of people who live, work, and play in the same place.

In every community, there are community helpers. A community helper is a person who helps others.

Doctors and nurses are community helpers. They help people when they are sick.

Police officers and firefighters are community helpers. They help people stay safe.

Teachers are community helpers. They help students learn!

Can you think of other community helpers where you live? Write or draw some community helpers you know below!

It is important that people say thank you to community helpers. It helps them know that they are appreciated!
